Reports:

It was found that due to poor design in the initial sprint and lack of experience with the node and express frameworks, that major delays were found during this sprint. The testing had been implemented but with limited code coverage.

However, the JSON storage had been implemented.

The registration page had been created.

Old business:

The edit functionality had to be scrapped as it was not possible to implement within the time frame.

Some testing was completed during this sprint

New Business:

Project closed

Announcements:

We treat this project as a learning experience in both web development and working in an agile development team. The issues that were raised during the project can be attributed to many deadlines for each individual of the group. However, in doing so the agile methodology for development was kept to but the technical debt incurred from poor design in the first sprint led to a downscale in the final product. Given more time the team however feels we could largely improve the product, but a large overhaul of the code structures used would need to be implemented.
