Reports:

The unfinished changes from sprint one was implemented.

The user login page was created as well as the ability for a secure login by hashing the password field.

The edit item incurred large technical debt as it was found that the code created during sprint one would need to be overhauled to implement the edit functionality.

Travis integration had been created.

Testing again could not be completed as the group had multiple projects due during this sprint. It was decided that all testing would need to be completed within the last sprint.

Unfinished business:

Testing for features created.

Edit functionality could not be completed.

New Business:

For sprint three due to the delays of the other sprints the initial product backlog would need to be reassessed as the team were able to create a functioning product but not fulfil the requirements of testing.

Announcements:

During the final sprint testing needs to be completed for all code.
